

Letter from Gilbert Grosvenor to Jason S. Joy, September 20, 1938, with transcript dictated by Dr Grosvenor over telephone from Baddeck, Nova Scotia P September 20, 1938 Colonel Jason S. Joy, In Charge of Public Relations, Twentieth Century-Studios, Beverly Hills, California Dear Colonel Joy:

As I have had no word from you this summer regarding the proposed ALEXANDER GRAHAM BELL BIOGRAPHICAL FILM, I assume that further difficulties have developed, and therefore I am venturing to suggest that your writers visit the Bell Memorial Room at the National Geographic Society headquarters in Washington in October.

Dr. Bell's family have collected all material relating to his life, and we have all his letters, notebooks, scrapbooks, etc., covering his entire life indexed in great detail. The material offers opportunity for a most interesting film.

Dr. Bell's daughters will be happy to afford any assistance required. They wish to advise you that they have not authorized any person or any relative to represent them in this matter.

With kind regards,

Very sincerely yours, (signed) GILBERT GROSVENOR airmail, special delivery
